9.8 Each subject committee shall also, within the relevant fields,

- ii. provide advice to the Assembly Cabinet on matters relating to allocation of the Assembly's budget in accordance with Standing Order 19;

The Committee's Aims and Objectives

The integration of health services and social care is the key objective in the committee's forward work programme. The programme addresses the major issues of tackling health inequalities and the determinants of ill health. The Committee will ensure that in reviewing and developing policy it will be making recommendations that will lead to high quality, value for money services. It will also want to be satisfied that services are properly regulated and inspected, especially those for vulnerable people.

This ethos conforms to the principles of "Better Wales, the National Assembly for Wales's strategic plan.

The Statutory Schemes

The Committee will also take account of the National Assembly's statutory schemes for relations with the local authorities and the voluntary sector, and the sustainable development scheme.

The Committee will consider a report of the Assembly Minister's meetings with the Voluntary Sector at least once year in accordance with section 3.7 of the Voluntary Sector Scheme.

The Committee's Priorities

"Better Wales" states that the National Assembly will work to transform the performance and quality of health and care services in Wales and that it will increase the fairness, effectiveness, efficiency and financial management, particularly through better planning and collaboration in the commissioning and delivery of services. The Committee has already addressed several of the issues that were identified in "Better Wales" for early action by the Assembly. It will continue to progress the objectives of "Better Wales".

- A children's commissioner for Wales. The Committee will have the opportunity to comment on regulations and to monitor the progress of the commissioner's work
- Health Improvement Programmes. It will continue to monitor the development and implementation of these programmes as part of its work on scrutinising health authorities.
- Hospital waiting times. The Committee will continue to monitor performance on hospital waiting times and pressures on the NHS.
- Fairer funding arrangements for the NHS. The Committee has commissioned a review of the NHS resource allocation formula. The Committee will consider the report of the National Steering Group in the context of "Improving Health in Wales - A Plan for the NHS and its Partners"
- Greater Protection for those receiving care. The Committee will advise on the establishment of the Care Council for Wales to raise standards in the workforce, and also on the Care Standards Inspectorate for Wales to improve the regulation of services. It will also advise on the implementation of the Children (Leaving Care) Act.
- A new approach to primary care. It will continue to advise on the development of the primary care strategy.

- A new community-led approach to health which tackles health inequalities. The Committee will monitor the progress of Local Health Groups.
- A Carer's Strategy for Wales. It will continue to monitor and advise on the development of a Carers' Strategy.
- A renewed capital programme. The Committee wishes to be involved in early discussions on the capital programme.
- Modernising Patient Advocacy and Support. The Committee will review current arrangements for public liaison and patient advocacy

During its discussions on the budget priorities for 2001-2002 the Committee identified a number of priorities for the coming year and beyond, and will monitor progress of their achievement. These were set out as follows in the letter of 12 July 2000 from the Chair of the Committee to the Assembly Secretary:

"Improving health and tackling inequalities

The problems of deprived communities, with an emphasis on those with the worst health, should be addressed, especially through the Communities First programme. The potential contribution of health / social care action zones should be considered in these areas.

Children's Services

Establishing the post of the Children's Commissioner remains a high priority.

Services for the elderly

Provision needs to be made to enable a positive response to the report of the Royal Commission on the Long Term Care of the Elderly. There would be a cost associated with better regulation and standards. This would have an effect on both local authorities and the voluntary sector. The Committee considers it important that funding for the voluntary sector is stabilised.

Clinical and service developments

In view of the levels of cancer and coronary heart disease in Wales, health authorities must continue to have the resources required for improving services. Authorities must also have the resources to increase service capacity where there is a need. Their effectiveness should be monitored through their Health Improvement Plans.

Ambulance Service

The committee was concerned that the Ambulance Service should have the resources to deliver the required standards of service.

Human Resources Strategy

Adequate funding for the recruitment and development of staff and for underpinning the strategy is crucial to the achievement of other priorities.

Information and Communication Technology (ICT)

The effective use of ICT and tele-medicine is also important for the efficiency of the modern health service.

Voluntary Sector

The voluntary sector must have adequate and secure funding if it is to sustain and develop its contribution to health and social care."
