

Health and Social Care Committee
Human Transplantation (Wales) Bill
HT(Ind)107 - Graham J. Bishop

Dear Sir or madam

I happened to notice a new policy of presuming consent for organ donation when someone dies unless the person specifically refuses.

I believe the donation of a particular person's organs is a voluntary personal decision which the person themselves may or may not consider. It is not the right or presumed property of the state to make such assumptions, hence I disagree with the proposed policy.

From Graham J. Bishop, Reading, Berkshire.
