My thoughts of a small business owner in Wales

I have a little policy of thanking people in welsh (diolch yn fawr) and saying good morning also in Welsh (bora da) i think that standardisation of this everyday would show people it is ok to speak Welsh.

It works for people as most know these words and are easy to state and remember daily.

When i went to poland i say thank you in polish (i cant write it) i think its good to be polite and when in rome you should speak they local language. So why not start with making it acceptable to say thank you and morning in work places daily
